CERTIFIED TRAININGS

KOMAX ON.SITE TRAINING

Do you want to instruct or re-train your operating personnel? Shorten your setup times and avoid unplanned downtimes? Or keep your own instructors up-to-speed with the latest technology (and teaching methods)? We support your plans with the On.Site Training courses of the Komax Academy.

Your requirements

– Employees must be able to perform their work to specifications
– Employees need to be trained by experts
– Work more efficiently and effectively
– More security and reliability in production
– Achieve maximum quality consistently

Your benefit

– Well-trained employees who know what they're doing
– Fewer breakdowns due to human error or improper maintenance
– Higher and more consistent quality and therefore higher productivity
– Customized training – on request also at your facility

Description

For all Komax machines and test systems, we offer thorough training with the three levels "Basic," "Advanced" and "Specialist." In the "Trainer" course we optimize the teaching skills of your instructors. So you can rest assured that each of your employees is well prepared for their respective functions. The courses take between 1 and 10 days depending on the equipment and level of expertise. They are held at our locations around the world; on request, we can also hold the courses at your location. Every Komax On.Site Training course concludes with a certification test; the certificate is the prerequisite for participation in the next level of training.

Scope of services

– Theoretical and practical training
– Certification test
