Toronto, Canada

Shaw Almex announced today that it has opened a new distribution and service center located in Denver Colorado. This is the second facility Almex has opened in the last year and represents a significant commitment to its western USA customers.

The warehouse will have a cold room for stocking and shipping Fusion Splice consumable products including splice kits, adhesives, pulley lagging and repair materials. Splice kits will be available with same day expedited service.

Almex Vice President Mark Bayley stated “This represents a significant step towards servicing our western US customers and offering a new level of service and product availability. With a facility for service technicians to work from, we will be able to offer our customers faster turnaround times and Almex will have the only Vulcanizer service depot in the entire region”

The facility will be fully operational and stocked with materials by November 30th of this year. Refurbishment service will be available from October 30th onwards.

With its central location the Denver facility will be able to offer delivery with 48 hours to most west and southwest locations.
