Christmas box with a surprise

Create a festive Christmas box with a surprise inside! With the right scoring, folding, cutting, and glueing skills, you can craft a beautiful gift box that not only shines under the Christmas tree but also reveals a delightful surprise when opened.

1

For the base of the box, use a red sheet measuring 30 x 30 cm. Place it on the Score Easy and score at 4 cm and 12 cm. Rotate the paper 90 degrees and score again at the same measurements. Repeat for all sides.
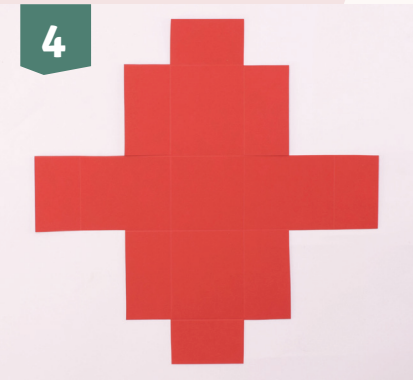

2

Using scissors, cut along the 12 cm score lines up to the square in the centre, as shown in the picture.

3

For the lid, use a red sheet of cardstock measuring 30.5 x 30.5 cm. Place it on the Score Easy and score at 4 cm and 12 cm. Rotate the paper 90 degrees and score again, continuing for all sides.

4

Cut out the corners as shown in the picture.

5

Cut rectangles from red paper with text (6.2 x 7.5 cm), striped paper (5.6 x 7.4 cm), and holly paper (3.6 x 5.6 cm). Also cut a square of 5.6 x 5.6 cm and another of 6.3 x 6.3 cm from the holly paper.

6

Take the base of the box and stick the striped rectangles onto the rectangular sections using double-sided tape. Fold the small flaps inward and glue the short sides together to create small storage pockets.

7

Glue the holly paper rectangles onto the storage pockets. In the centre, attach the 5.6 x 5.6 cm square.

8

Assemble the lid by folding all the flaps inward and sticking them in place.

9

Attach the text rectangles and the holly square (6.2 x 6.2 cm) to the outside of the lid.

10

Use the die to cut out a Christmas tree box from glitter paper. Repeat to create two shapes.

11

Cross the two Christmas tree shapes over each other and glue the sides together. Then, attach the tree to the base of the box.

12

Cut two white and two green organza ribbons, each 60 cm long. Tip: stick them criss-cross at the bottom of the box with a small piece of double-sided tape. Then, tie a bow at the top of the box.
